Preserve, Promote, Progress The National Mission for Cultural Mapping

Advitya Bahl

Union Minister for Culture and Tourism, Shri Gajendra Singh Shekhawat, recently informed the Parliament that 4.5 lakh villages are currently live on the Mera Desh Meri Dharohar portal, showcasing their respective cultural portfolios. This significant achievement is part of India's ambitious National Mission on Cultural Mapping (NMCM), a transformative initiative aimed at preserving, documenting, and revitalising the nation's rich cultural heritage. With a vision to create a comprehensive cultural inventory, the mission seeks to map the creative potential of India's villages, ensuring their self-reliance while celebrating the diverse artistic traditions that form the backbone of the country's cultural identity.

The mission captures India's cultural mosaic by documenting an array of elements such as traditional knowledge, oral histories, festivals, art forms, local rituals, cuisine, architecture, and physical landmarks. Through the Mera Gaon Meri Dharohar (MGMD) initiative, 6.5 lakh villages across 29 states and 7 Union Territories are being culturally profiled, with the database integrating detailed information on both living traditions and endangered practices. Over 360-degree video documentation of 750 villages adds immersive depth to this cultural mapping, making India's heritage accessible in innovative ways.

This holistic approach to cultural documentation not only preserves India's intangible heritage but also serves as a developmental tool, linking art forms to tourism, education, and economic growth. The NMCM portal, functioning as the National Cultural Workplace, provides a digital platform for cultural service providers and stakeholders, promoting collaboration, knowledge exchange, skill development, and livelihood generation. In doing so, the mission exemplifies India's commitment to preserving its cultural diversity while adapting it to the needs of a modern and interconnected world.

Cultural mapping serves as a systematic approach to identify, collect, and analyse cultural assets and resources within communities. It involves engaging with artists and local populations to document their cultural expressions, which can enhance community identity and vitality. In India, the Ministry of Culture executes this through the National Mission on Cultural Mapping, launched in 2017. Key objectives of cultural mapping encompass the following:

- Documentation: Capturing both tangible and intangible cultural heritage.
- Community Empowerment: Facilitating local participation in cultural preservation efforts.
- Economic Development: Leveraging cultural assets for livelihood opportunities.

Methodologies in Cultural Mapping

Cultural mapping is characterised by its interdisciplinary nature, combining elements from social

Bridging Minds and Machines New Careers in Cognitive Sciences

Prateek Singh

As human learning, decision-making, and execution become increasingly dependent on computers, machines, and artificial intelligence, it is essential to recognise that these systems remain incomplete without human cognition. Cognition, the mental process through which we acquire, understand, and use knowledge- including perception, memory, reasoning, and problem-solving-serves as the foundation for aligning AI systems with human thought and behaviour. While AI can process vast amounts of data and perform tasks with incredible efficiency, it lacks the intuitive understanding, creativity, and reasoning that define the human mind. Cognitive science bridges this gap, ensuring that technological advancements are not only efficient but also human-centric, reflecting real-world needs and values. For those considering a career at this intersection, cognitive sciences offer an exciting opportunity to shape intelligent systems that combine technological power with the depth of human understanding.

What are Cognitive Sciences?

Cognitive sciences are the intricate functioning of the human mind and brain.

The cognitive sciences include disciplines such as psychology, neuroscience, artificial intelligence, linguistics, anthropology, and philosophy. At its very core, cognitive sciences work to understand how we perceive, think, remember, and act.

Why should this matter to you? Because understanding cognition isn't just academic; it's the foundation for groundbreaking careers in technology, healthcare, education, business, and beyond.

Growing Demand for Cognitive Scientists

The world is changing at a pace that has never been witnessed before, and the power to predict and understand human behaviour is priceless. Industry across the board is in need of cognitive scientists to better design products, to enhance the user experience, find better solutions for mental health problems, and even to shape public policy.

Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning: The modern tech world demands that AI systems act like humans in their decision-making and problem-solving. Cognitive scientists are integral to developing algorithms that understand natural language, detect patterns, and simulate human-like thinking. They

INNOVATIONS UNLOCKED

Mission Mausam: Driving Innovations in Weather Forecasting

As human-induced climate change accelerates and extreme weather events become increasingly frequent, India's Mission Mausam has emerged as a groundbreaking initiative to revolutionise weather forecasting and climate preparedness. Approved by the Union Cabinet on September 11, 2024, with a budget of Rs. 2,000 crores, this ambitious project is designed to make India a 'weather-ready and climate-smart' nation by 2026. Spearheaded by the Ministry of Earth Sciences (MoES), the mission has necessitated significant advancements in research and development (R&D) and the integration of cutting-edge technologies, marking a transformative leap for Indian meteorology.

The need for Mission Mausam stems from India's vulnerability to a wide range of severe weather phenomena—floods, cyclones, droughts, and heatwaves—that threaten lives, livelihoods, and economic stability. To meet these challenges head-on, the mission focuses on advancing next-generation weather surveillance technologies. Key requirements include the deployment of 50 Doppler Weather Radars (DWRs), 60 Radio Wind Stations (RWS), and precision instruments like radio-meters and wind profilers. These technologies will improve atmospheric observation, enhancing both spatial and temporal forecasting accuracy. Additionally, the mission integrates Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Machine Learning (ML) with traditional numerical models, creating systems capable of processing vast datasets in real-time to predict extreme weather events with greater precision.

The emphasis on R&D under Mission Mausam will not only strengthen India's scientific understanding of atmospheric processes but also drive home-grown innovations in weather forecasting. Collaboration between institutes like the India Meteorological Department (IMD), the National Centre for Medium-Range Weather Forecasting (NCMRWF), and private partners will foster technological breakthroughs. By 2026, this enhanced network of instruments and models is expected to significantly elevate India's ability to detect, analyse, and respond to weather systems, ensuring that vulnerable communities receive timely, life-saving information.

Transformative Weather Technologies

At the heart of Mission Mausam lies the integration of advanced technology to improve weather observation and prediction. Over the next two years, India will establish a comprehensive network of instruments, including:

- 50 Doppler Weather Radars (DWRs): These radars will provide detailed information on rainfall intensity, wind speeds, and severe weather conditions. Doppler radars are crucial for tracking storms and predicting heavy rainfall, which is critical in flood-prone areas.
- 60 Radio Sonde/ Radio Wind (RS/RW) Stations: These stations will gather valuable data on atmospheric pressure, temperature, humidity, and wind patterns, helping meteorologists understand weather patterns more precisely.

- 100 Disdrometers and 10 Wind Profilers: Disdrometers will measure raindrop size distribution and rainfall rate, while wind profilers will provide real-time data on wind velocity at various altitudes. These observations will further refine weather models.

- 25 Radiometers: These instruments will measure the intensity of electromagnetic radiation in the atmosphere, providing key data for satellite weather forecasting systems.

- An Urban Testbed and an Ocean Research Station: The establishment of these stations will help India study micro-climates in urban areas and coastal environments, both of which are highly susceptible to climate change.

By March 2026, this wider network of weather instruments is expected to be fully operational. According to Dr. M. Ravichandran, Secretary, Ministry of Earth Science, this will mark a turning point for India's ability to predict extreme weather events more accurately and provide life-saving information to at-risk communities.

Enhanced Forecasting with AI and Machine Learning

One of the most exciting aspects of Mission Mausam is the integration of AI and ML technologies into weather forecasting models. Traditionally, weather forecasting has relied on physics-based numerical models that simulate the atmosphere's behaviour. However, these models often face limitations due to the immense complexity of atmospheric processes and the limi-

INTERVIEW

Dr. Mrutyunjay Mohapatra
Director General of Meteorology
India Meteorological Department
(IMD), Govt. of India

Q. How will Mission Mausam enhance weather forecasting accuracy and timeliness?

A. Mission Mausam, an ambitious initiative approved by the Government of India, aims to improve weather forecasting by upgrading observational, modelling, computing, forecasting, and information dissemination systems. This will be achieved through the deployment of 50 Doppler Radars, 60 Radio Wind Stations, 25 wind profilers, and 25 radiometers across the country, enabling India to meet global standards. With Mission Mausam, weather forecast accuracy is expected to improve by 10% over current levels.

Q. How will critical weather information reach last-mile users and vulnerable communities?

A. Mission Mausam will ensure critical weather information reaches last-mile users and vulnerable communities by generating forecasts at the Panchayat level using global models with a resolution of 5-12 km. Regional models will operate at a 1 km resolution, enabling location-specific warnings. Mobile applications such as Mausam, Meghdoot, and Damini will deliver forecasts related to weather, agriculture, and lightning. Additionally, Panchayat-level information will be disseminated through mobile apps, media, and social media platforms.

Q. How will Mission Mausam help reduce flood risks in India through enhanced weather forecasting and disaster management?

A. Mission Mausam will help mitigate flood risks by addressing urban flooding through specialised modelling systems supported by high-resolution observational networks. In hilly regions, improved observational systems will enable the detection of small-scale phenomena, facilitating early warnings for landslides and floods. Furthermore, Mission Mausam will address coastal and river flooding in collaboration with other agencies, such as the Geological Survey of India and the Central Water Commission.

Mission Mausam plans to overcome these challenges by blending traditional models with data-driven AI/ML approaches. AI/ML algorithms will help process vast amounts of atmospheric data from multiple sources—such as radars, satellites, and sensors—and provide real-time insights for better decision-making. This fusion of technologies promises to offer more accurate predictions of weather phenomena, particularly in predicting the onset and intensity of events like cyclones and monsoons.

Capacity Building and Global Collaboration

To ensure the long-term success of Mission Mausam, capacity building will be a key focus. India aims to train a new generation of meteorologists, engineers, and data scientists to work with the latest weather forecasting technologies. Through partnerships with national and international institutes, the mission will also promote collaborative research and development, enhancing India's global standing in weather and climate sciences.

The three main implementing institutions—the India Meteorological Department (IMD), the National Centre for Medium-Range Weather Forecasting (NCMRWF), and the Indian Institute of Tropical Meteorology (IITM)—will collaborate closely with other MoES institutes such as the Indian National Centre for Ocean Information Services (INCOIS) and the National Institute of Ocean Technology (NIOT). Additionally, academia and private industry partners will contribute to R&D efforts, ensuring continuous innovation in weather forecasting technology.

Impact on Society and Economy

Beyond the technological advancements, Mission Mausam is expected to generate considerable social and economic benefits. Better weather forecasts will empower farmers with timely information on rainfall and temperature, helping them make informed decisions about sowing and irrigation. Fishermen will benefit from accurate coastal weather predictions, which will ensure safer navigation and better yield. Moreover, industries reliant on weather-sensitive operations—such as agriculture, aviation, construction, and disaster management—will see improved risk management and operational efficiency.

A Path towards a Climate-Resilient Future

With India taking concrete steps towards improving its weather and climate forecasting systems, Mission Mausam is poised to become a landmark initiative. As Dr. Ravichandran noted, "No weather system in the country will go undetected." By deploying state-of-the-art instruments, integrating AI/ML in forecasting, and fostering collaborative research, India is setting the foundation for a more weather-ready and climate-smart nation. This mission is not only about building technological infrastructure but also about ensuring that India is prepared to face the growing challenges of climate change, ultimately safeguarding the lives and livelihoods of millions.

As Mission Mausam unfolds over the next two years, it is expected to set new benchmarks for weather forecasting and climate resilience, marking a pivotal moment in India's journey towards becoming a leader in atmospheric science and weather prediction.

Objectives of Mission Mausam

Developing Cutting-Edge Weather Surveillance Technologies

Mission Mausam aims to enhance atmospheric observation capabilities through next-generation weather observation instruments. This includes the deployment of more advanced satellites and radars, providing greater spatial and temporal coverage for improved weather monitoring.

Upgrading Weather Forecast Models

The mission focuses on improving the scientific understanding of atmospheric and oceanic processes by leveraging enhanced earth system models and data-driven methods. By integrating numerical weather models with AI and ML, India seeks to significantly enhance forecasting accuracy.

Strengthening Data Dissemination

Mission Mausam prioritises developing robust data dissemination systems that ensure seamless connectivity, reaching all stakeholders. This includes government agencies, industries, farmers, and fishermen, enabling them to make well-informed decisions based on reliable weather and climate information.

Capacity Building and Research

The initiative emphasises capacity building and research. It aims to train and educate meteorological and scientific communities to foster homegrown innovations in weather forecasting technologies and methodologies. By expanding R&D activities, India seeks to build a robust and innovative weather forecasting ecosystem.

Preserve, Promote, Progress : The National Mission for Cultural ... sciences, humanities, and cartography. It employs various methodologies to create visual and textual representations of cultural data.

Participatory Mapping: Engages community members to ensure maps reflect authentic local perspectives. It documents cultural assets while empowering communities as heritage custodians.

Geographic Information Systems (GIS) Mapping: Utilises GIS technology to create detailed digital maps, enabling spatial analysis and visualisation of cultural sites.

Field Surveys: Involves on-site assessment of cultural assets, gathering tangible data on landmarks, practices, and resources.

Archival Research: Examines historical records, documents, and artefacts to uncover past cultural practices, adding depth to mapping.

Emotional and Cognitive Mapping: Captures emotional connections and perceptions of places. Emotional mapping explores feelings, while cognitive mapping focusses on how spaces are understood and navigated.

Deep Mapping: Integrates qualitative data like stories and memories, offering a narrative-driven and holistic view of cultural identity.

Counter-Mapping: Challenges dominant narratives by showcasing marginalised perspectives, often used in Indigenous contexts to assert land and resource rights.

Qualitative GIS: Combines GIS with qualitative methods, enriching spatial data with narratives and community insights.

Tools Used in Cultural Mapping

Survey Instruments: Questionnaires and interview guides for data collection.

Mapping Software: Tools like GIS for detailed map creation.

Photographic Equipment: Cameras and drones for visual documentation.

Database Systems: Software for efficient data storage and analysis.

These methodologies and tools collectively foster a deeper understanding of cultural landscapes, supporting preservation and community engagement.

National Mission on Cultural Mapping: Scope and Significance

India's cultural richness lies in its abundant talent, vibrant art forms, and a deeply rooted heritage that spans traditional and modern styles. By systematically mapping these assets, cultural mapping can help strengthen the livelihoods of performing artists, artisans, and creative industries, while fostering social cohesion through a shared cultural identity.

India's cultural diversity is unparalleled, with 29 states and 7 union territories hosting a multitude of art forms and languages. The 2011 Census recorded 34 languages spoken by over a million people and 122 spoken by more than 10,000, highlighting the dynamic relationship between language, population, and art forms. Indian art spans visual, performing, and literary categories, reflecting its geographical and historical richness. Traditional knowledge, such as oral traditions, local medicinal practices, and crafts like instrument-making and mask-making, is at risk of extinction without structured preservation efforts. India's art history, dating back to pre-historic times, reflects layers of cultural and religious influences, from the Indus Valley to Hinduism, Buddhism, and Islam.

The culture and creative industries employ nearly half of India's workforce, but their growth hinges on developing sustainable revenue models to ensure their survival and vitality. Moreover, fragmented efforts, lack of a centralised database, and insufficient skill development mechanisms pose significant challenges to preserving and promoting these art forms. The NMCM aims to address these issues by creating a comprehensive inventory of artists, art forms, and cultural organisations, enabling better planning, resource allocation, and capacity-building. It also ensures that endangered art forms and oral traditions are documented and revitalised before they are lost.

Moreover, the mission aspires to address pressing challenges such as the widening cultural divide, the migration of rural populations to urban centres, and the erosion of traditional knowledge systems in the face of modernisation. By celebrating and cultivating India's rich cultural heritage, it seeks to unlock opportunities for public-private partnerships, foster skill development, and promote Indian culture on a global stage. Additionally, the mission envisions culture as a catalyst for economic growth, facilitating expansive activities in domains such as handicrafts, performing arts, and regional entertainment, thereby transforming cultural heritage into a dynamic engine for employment and development.

Key Components of NMCM

- The National Cultural Awareness Programme is designed to promote cultural talent and create awareness across the country. It includes initiatives like Sanskritik Pratibha Khoj Samaroh, a talent search programme, and competitions conducted from block to national levels. To motivate and reward excellence, awards are instituted for artists, with 20% of the prize money allocated to their mentors, fostering the Guru-Shishya tradition.
- The National Cultural Workplace (NCWP) is a centralised Transactional Web Portal with database and demography of cultural assets and resources including all art forms and artists. It aims to centralise cultural activities through technology-driven solutions. A mobile app facilitates registration and access to the cultural workspace, while YouTube content and a comprehensive cultural mapping database serve as resources for education and engagement. Additionally, the NCWP offers a virtual learning platform and maintain a portal to streamline cultural activities and connect stakeholders.
- The Grant, Scholarship, Fellowship, and Award Processes have been redesigned using data derived from cultural mapping, ensuring transparency and objectivity. These processes will be seamlessly integrated with the NCWP, enabling artists and institutions to access funding and support more effectively.
- The Grading of Artists involves the creation of a Unique Cultural ID (UCID) for every artist, facilitating structured assessment and classification. This grading system has been linked to the NCWP to provide a comprehensive view of the artist community and their contributions.
- To enhance Artist Welfare, the mission includes the development of schemes for veteran artists, along with broader welfare initiatives informed by the cultural mapping database. These welfare schemes have been integrated with the NCWP to ensure easy access and efficient implementation.
- In redefining Cultural Infrastructure, the mission seeks to identify and

The NMCM is designed to achieve its objectives through the implementation of three interlinked programmes. These programmes—Sanskritik Pratibha Khoj, Mera Gaon Meri Dharohar (MGMD), and the National Cultural Workplace (NCWP)—serve as the operational pillars of the mission. Together, they aim to identify and promote cultural talent, map and document India's diverse art practices, and provide an interactive digital platform for artists and craftspeople, ensuring a holistic approach to preserving and revitalising India's rich cultural heritage.

Programme	Objective	Description
Sanskritik Pratibha Khoj	National Cultural Awareness Campaign, talent hunt, and revitalisation of folk and tribal heritage.	Focusses on identifying and promoting cultural talent while preserving traditional art forms.
Mera Gaon Meri Dharohar (MGMD)	Cultural Mapping of art practices and identifying artists and crafts persons.	Aims to document village-level cultural practices and create a database of local artists.
National Cultural Workplace (NCWP)	Creation of an interactive web portal for artists and crafts persons.	Provides an online platform for cultural service providers to connect and collaborate.

develop cultural hubs or Kala Grams managed by veteran artists. Programmes such as Guru-Shishya appreciation initiatives, institutional integration, and the development of skill and excellence centres are central to this effort. The NCWP serves as a bridge, linking these cultural infrastructures with broader artistic and educational activities.

- The Integration of Culture and Tourism map local artists and cultural events with tourism hotspots, promoting India's rich artistic heritage to a global audience. By highlighting the therapeutic value of art and designing cultural guide programmes, this component aims to boost cultural tourism.

Mera Gaon Meri Dharohar

Rural areas often serve as the custodians of centuries-old traditions, practices, and knowledge systems that are deeply woven into the fabric of daily life. Recognising the need to document and preserve these invaluable cultural assets, the Mera Gaon Meri Dharohar (MGMD) initiative was launched as a vital component of the National Mission on Cultural Mapping (NMCM) under the aegis of the Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav (AKAM). This ambitious endeavour aims to culturally map 6.5 lakh villages across India's 29 states and 7 Union Territories, with 4.5 lakh villages already documented and featured on the National Cultural Workplace portal.

The MGMD initiative covers a vast spectrum of cultural domains, including geographic, developmental, and cultural profiles. It captures village stories, traditional knowledge, wisdom traditions, customs, ornaments, cuisine, fairs, festivals, rituals, village deities, physical and historical landmarks, architecture, places of worship, and diverse art forms such as folk songs, dances, tales, legends, epics, theatre, handlooms, and handicrafts. Adding a modern dimension, 360-degree video shoots of villages are being done, providing an immersive representation of their cultural richness.

To achieve these objectives, the initiative places a strong emphasis on respecting local traditions as cultural mapping in Indian villages requires a sensitive approach that honours the distinct customs, festivals, folklore, and rituals of each community. Traditional art forms like Madhubani painting, Pattachitra, or Warli art, alongside oral traditions such as folk songs and storytelling, are prioritised to ensure their preservation and continued relevance.

At the same time, MGMD effectively integrates modern technologies to enhance the precision and accessibility of mapping efforts. Geographic Information Systems (GIS) and digital archiving platforms are employed to create detailed maps of cultural assets. Mobile applications and community-driven online platforms enable real-time documentation of festivals, heritage sites, and local crafts, bridging the gap between traditional knowledge systems and modern audiences.

Equally important is fostering community involvement in the mapping process. Structured initiatives actively engage local populations, ensuring inclusivity and representation of diverse voices. This participatory approach not only enriches the documentation but also instils a sense of pride and ownership among community members, motivating them to preserve and celebrate their cultural heritage for future generations.

By blending traditional knowledge with cutting-edge technologies and fostering grassroots participation, Mera Gaon Meri Dharohar aims to capture the evolving yet enduring character of Indian villages. This initiative not only safeguards heritage but also makes it accessible to the wider world, promoting sustainable tourism and unlocking economic opportunities rooted in the cultural wealth of rural India.

A Catalyst for Achieving SDGs

The National Mission on Cultural Mapping (NMCM) serves as a powerful instrument to not only document and preserve the nation's cultural heritage but also to align with and advance the global agenda of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

The mission directly supports SDG 13 (Climate Action) by documenting and revitalising traditional ecological practices such as sustainable agriculture, water harvesting, and forest conservation, which offer time-tested solutions to environmental challenges. By fostering community-driven efforts and promoting cultural resilience, the mission contributes to SDG 11 (Sustainable Cities and Communities) and SDG 15 (Life on Land), ensuring that rural and urban landscapes thrive sustainably.

Moreover, the mission's focus on empowering local communities—particularly through participatory mapping and capacity-building initiatives—addresses SDG 10 (Reduced Inequalities) by creating platforms for marginalised voices to shape cultural and developmental narratives. By fostering inclusive participation and governance, it also reinforces SDG 16 (Peace, Justice, and Strong Institutions), bridging the gap between traditional knowledge systems and modern governance frameworks.

Through the integration of India's rich cultural heritage into global frameworks, the mission not only safeguards intangible traditions but also propels development pathways that are inclusive, sustainable, and rooted in cultural identity. This approach positions India's cultural mapping mission as a cornerstone of its commitment to achieving the SDGs, ensuring that cultural preservation goes hand in hand with sustainable development and global progress.

contribute insights from human cognition to ensure AI systems are not just efficient but also intuitive and user-friendly. For instance, natural language processing- the backbone of voice assistants like Alexa or Siri- requires cognitive scientists to decode how humans communicate and interpret language. Similarly, machine learning models benefit from cognitive principles to make better predictions and adapt to complex real-world scenarios.

As India rapidly grows into a global technology hub, the demand for AI professionals with a cognitive science background is soaring. Companies in sectors like fintech, healthcare, and edtech are on the lookout for experts who can merge technical prowess with an understanding of human behaviour, ensuring that technology serves people in meaningful ways. This unique combination of skills not only sets you apart but also places you at the forefront of innovation in AI and machine learning.

- Human-AI Interaction Specialist: These professionals focus on designing and enhancing the way humans interact with AI systems, ensuring user-friendly and intuitive experiences. They bridge the gap between technology and human behaviour, making AI systems more responsive and natural to use.
- Data Scientist: Data scientists analyse vast amounts of data to identify patterns, make predictions, and inform decisions using AI and machine learning models. By incorporating insights from cognitive science, they develop algorithms capable of adapting to real-world complexities and human behaviour.
- AI Ethicist: AI ethicists examine the societal, moral, and ethical implications of AI systems to ensure fairness, transparency, and accountability. They play a crucial role in formulating guidelines and policies that align AI advancements with human values and the greater good of society.

Healthcare and Neurotechnology: Cognitive sciences are revolutionising healthcare by driving innovation in diagnostics, treatment, and rehabilitation for a wide range of mental and neurological conditions. By leveraging insights into how the brain functions, cognitive scientists are pioneering advancements in brain-machine interfaces, which enable direct communication between the brain and external devices. These technologies hold the potential to restore mobility for paralysed individuals and enhance human capabilities beyond natural limits.

Additionally, therapies for neuro-degenerative diseases like Alzheimer's and Parkinson's are being developed with an in-depth understanding of cognitive decline and brain plasticity. Cognitive sciences are also instrumental in creating tools for cognitive rehabilitation, helping patients recover from strokes, traumatic brain injuries, or other impairments. These innovations are transforming healthcare into a more personalised, effective, and human-centered domain.

- Neuropsychologist: Experts in understanding the relationship between brain function and behaviour, aiding in the diagnosis and treatment of cognitive disorders.
- Cognitive Rehabilitation Specialist: Professionals who design and implement therapeutic programmes to restore cognitive abilities in individuals with brain injuries or illnesses.
- Brain-Computer Interface Designer: Innovators creating technologies that enable seamless interaction between the human brain and machines, unlocking new possibilities for assistive devices and neurotechnology.

Education and EdTech: India's education sector is ripe for transformation. Cognitive scientists are building personalised learning systems that adapt to the unique needs of each student, making education more inclusive, engaging, and effective. By analysing how students learn and process information, cognitive scientists develop teaching methodologies that enhance memory retention, critical thinking, and problem-solving skills.

Cognitive science principles are being used to design adaptive learning platforms, AI-driven tutoring systems, and gamified educational tools. These innovations empower educators to create learning environments that cater to diverse abilities and learning styles, bridging gaps in traditional teaching methods and ensuring no student is left behind.

- Learning Experience Designer: Specialists who craft engaging, research-backed educational content and systems to optimise learning outcomes.
- Educational Neuroscientist: Researchers who study the impact of teaching strategies and educational technologies on brain development and learning.
- Cognitive Skills Trainer: Professionals who develop and deliver programmes to improve skills like memory, attention, and problem-solving in students and professionals alike.

Behavioural Economics and Market Research: In the business world, understanding consumer behaviour is a golden ticket to success. Cognitive scientists bring valuable insights into behavioural economics by decoding the cognitive processes behind decision-making. They analyse how emotions, biases, and environmental cues influence purchasing behaviour, enabling companies to craft smarter marketing campaigns and design intuitive, user-friendly products.

For example, cognitive scientists might study how layout and design impact online shopping experiences or how pricing strategies affect consumer perception. These insights drive innovation in branding, product development, and customer engagement, giving businesses a competitive edge in a crowded marketplace.

- Behavioural Data Analyst: Experts who interpret complex consumer data to identify patterns and trends, guiding business strategies.
- Market Research Consultant: Professionals who design and execute research studies to understand consumer preferences and behaviour.
- Consumer Psychologist: Specialists who study how thoughts, beliefs, and feelings influence consumer actions and brand loyalty.

Public Policy and Governance: Governments and NGOs increasingly rely on cognitive science insights to tackle pressing societal challenges. From improving the effectiveness of public health campaigns to designing education policies that promote equitable learning opportunities, cognitive scientists play a crucial role in shaping policies that impact millions.

For instance, cognitive science principles are applied to nudge strategies, which subtly influence behaviour to achieve desired outcomes, such as increasing vaccination rates or reducing energy consumption. By understanding how people process information and make decisions, cognitive scientists help policymakers craft initiatives that resonate with diverse populations and achieve measurable results.

- Policy Advisor: Professionals who provide evidence-based recommendations for designing and implementing impactful policies.
- Social Cognition Researcher: Experts who study how societal and cultural factors influence thought processes and behaviour.
- Human Factors Specialist: Specialists who optimise systems, products, and policies to align with human capabilities and limitations.

The Indian Context: Why Now?

India stands at a unique position today to become a global leader in cognitive sciences. Here's why:

Digital Revolution: With the Digital India initiatives and proliferation of AI and big data, the requirement for cognitive science experts is ever growing. Industries are looking for professionals who can analyse human behaviour and design tech solutions tailored for India's diverse population.

Focus on Mental Health: As awareness around mental health increases, cognitive science will help fill the gap for India's mental healthcare ecosystem. With this, designing therapy apps to counseling and training, the scope remains unlimited.

Renaissance in Education: The Indian National Education Policy 2020 focuses on critical thinking, problem-solving, and an interdisciplinary approach that aligns with cognitive sciences.

International Opportunities: You can apply your degree in cognitive sciences way beyond India's borders. The demand for cognitive scientists worldwide guarantees work opportunities with the best research institutions, the biggest tech companies, and the largest healthcare organisations globally.

Establishing a Career in Cognitive Sciences

Education: You need to start off with a B.A. or B.Sc. in psychology, neuroscience, computer science, or linguistics. Several universities in India and the IITs, IISc, and private institutions offer courses in these fields.

Skills to Acquire

- Programming and Data Analysis: Python, R, MATLAB
- Research Methods: Statistical tools and experimental design
- Communication: Expressing complexity into actionable insight
- Interdisciplinary Thinking: Synthesis of knowledge across disciplines

Practical Experience: Back up your degree with internships, research assistantships, or online projects in the areas of user experience design, AI development, or clinical research.

Where to Study?

Based on the National Institutional Ranking Framework (NIRF) rankings for 2024, here are the top 20 universities and colleges in India that offer programmes relevant to cognitive sciences and related fields:

Rank	Institution	Location	NIRF Rank (Category)	Programmes Offered
1	Indian Institute of Science (IISc)	Bengaluru, Karnataka	1 (Universities)	Various research programmes in cognitive science and neuroscience.
2	Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU)	New Delhi	2 (Universities)	Programmes in psychology and interdisciplinary studies.
3	Jamia Millia Islamia (JMI)	New Delhi	3 (Universities)	Courses in psychology and cognitive studies.
4	Manipal Academy of Higher Education	Manipal, Karnataka	4 (Universities)	Undergraduate and post-graduate programmes in psychology and cognitive science.
5	Banaras Hindu University (BHU)	Varanasi, Uttar Pradesh	5 (Universities)	Programmes in psychology and behavioural sciences.
6	University of Delhi	New Delhi	6 (Universities)	Various courses in psychology and cognitive studies
7	Amrita Vishwa Vidyapeetham	Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu	7 (Universities)	Courses in psychology with a focus on cognitive processes.
8	Aligarh Muslim University (AMU)	Aligarh, Uttar Pradesh	8 (Universities)	Programmes in psychology and related fields.
9	Jadavpur University	Kolkata, West Bengal	9 (Universities)	Programmes in psychology and interdisciplinary studies.
10	Vellore Institute of Technology (VIT)	Vellore, Tamil Nadu	10 (Universities)	B.Tech with a specialisation in Artificial Intelligence and Cognitive Computing.
11	Indian Institute of Technology Madras	Chennai, Tamil Nadu	1 (Engineering)	Research opportunities in cognitive computing and AI applications.
12	Indian Institute of Technology Delhi	New Delhi	3 (Engineering)	Courses related to artificial intelligence and cognitive systems.
13	Indian Institute of Technology Bombay	Mumbai, Maharashtra	2 (Engineering)	Research in cognitive technologies and AI.
14	Indian Institute of Technology Kanpur	Kanpur, Uttar Pradesh	5 (Engineering)	Focus on AI and cognitive science research.
15	Indian Institute of Technology Kharagpur	Kharagpur, West Bengal	6 (Engineering)	Research opportunities in cognitive science applications.
16	All India Institute of Medical Sciences	New Delhi	7 (Medical)	Research in neuroscience and cognitive health.

"Jalavahak" Scheme: Promoting Inland Waterways and Cargo Movement

EN EXPLAINS

Union Minister for Ports, Shipping, and Waterways, Shri Sarbananda Sonowal, unveiled the Jalavahak scheme on December 15, 2024, marking a significant milestone in India's Inland Waterways Policy. This initiative aims to promote long-distance cargo transportation through National Waterway 1 (River Ganga), National Waterway 2 (River Brahmaputra), and National Waterway 16 (River Barak). The launch event also featured the flagging off of vessels MV AAI, MV Homi Bhabha, MV Trishul, and two dumb barges, Ajay and Dikhu, from GR Jetty. These vessels initiated scheduled cargo services on routes connecting Kolkata, Patna, Varanasi, and Pandu in Guwahati via the Indo-Bangladesh Protocol Route (IBPR).

Reviving Trade through Inland Waterways

Historically, waterways were the primary mode of trade in India. However, with the advent of rail, road, and air transport, the use of waterways declined, leading to the closure of many ports. The Government of India has now revised its Inland Waterways Policy to tap into the potential of this environmentally sustainable and cost-efficient mode of transport. The Jalavahak scheme seeks to ease congestion on roads and railways while providing an economic value proposition for businesses to explore cargo transport via waterways. Scheduled freight services ensure timely delivery and build confidence in inland waterways as a viable alternative.

How the Jalavahak Scheme Propels the Blue Economy

India has witnessed a transformative surge in cargo movement via its revitalised waterways, growing from 18.07 million MT in 2013-14 to an estimated 132.89 million MT in 2023-24, representing a staggering 600% increase. This remarkable growth underscores the effectiveness of targeted investments and policy reforms aimed at revitalising inland waterways as a key mode of transport. By setting a modal shift target of 800 million tonne-kilometres by 2027, supported by an investment of Rs. 95.4 crore, the Government has reinforced its commitment to leveraging the untapped potential of India's vast water resources.

Optimising inland waterways offers a multifaceted advantage. It significantly reduces logistics costs, which are traditionally higher in India compared to global benchmarks, thus improving trade competitiveness. Inland water transport is also inherently energy-efficient, consuming less fuel per tonne-kilometre than road or rail, making it a more environmentally sustainable option. Moreover, the reduced dependency on road and rail networks helps alleviate congestion and minimises wear and tear on existing infrastructure.

The Jalavahak scheme amplifies these efforts by providing a structured framework to incentivise cargo movement through National Waterways. This initiative not only supports economic efficiency but also aligns with the core principles of the Blue Economy, which emphasise sustainable use of water resources for economic growth, environmental preservation, and livelihood generation. The scheme fosters regional connectivity, integrates under-utilised water routes into the national transport network, and unlocks new economic opportunities for industries and trade hubs located along the waterways.

By fostering innovation in logistics, promoting environmentally responsible practices, and facilitating economic

Benefits of the Jalavahak Scheme

- Efficient Cargo Transport: Vessels such as MV Trishul, MV AAI, and MV Homi Bhabha are used to transport goods like cement, gypsum, and coal across waterways.
- Incentives for Cargo Owners: Cargo owners are incentivised to use waterways for distances over 300 km, with reimbursements of up to 35% of operating expenses.
- Encouragement for Private Operators: The scheme promotes the use of privately owned or operated vessels, expanding participation beyond government agencies.
- Reduced Logistics Costs: By leveraging inland waterways, the scheme lowers overall logistics costs for businesses.
- Sustainable Transport Mode: Promotes an environmentally friendly and sustainable alternative to road and rail transport.
- Scheduled Services: Regular services operate between Kolkata, Patna, Varanasi, and Pandu (Guwahati) via the Indo-Bangladesh Protocol Route (IBPR).
- Reliable Delivery Timelines: Ensures dependable transit times ranging from 5 to 14 days, boosting confidence in waterways as a viable mode of transport.
- Joint Implementation: Operated by IWAI and ICSSL, the scheme combines expertise to strengthen the inland waterways network.

diversification, the Jalavahak scheme embodies the vision of a sustainable and resilient Blue Economy. It reflects India's commitment to balancing development with ecological stewardship, setting a global example for harnessing waterborne transport as a cornerstone of sustainable economic growth.

Inland Waterways Policy: A Historical Perspective

India's vast network of rivers and canals offers immense potential for Inland Water Transport (IWT). However, with the advent of railways during British rule, waterways lost prominence. Structured efforts to revive IWT began in the 1980s with the establishment of the IWAI in 1986. A significant breakthrough came with the National Waterways Act, 2016, which designated 111 waterways as National Waterways, aiming to reduce pressure on road and rail infrastructure.

Key Initiatives Under the Policy:

- Jal Marg Vikas Project (JMVP): Supported by the World Bank, this project focuses on developing NW-1 with multimodal terminals and navigational aids.
- Sagarmala Project: While primarily focused on port development, it integrates IWT with coastal shipping.
- Public-Private Partnerships (PPP): Encourages private sector participation in infrastructure development.
- Skill Development: Provides training for boat operators and engineers to ensure a skilled workforce.

Future Prospects and Challenges

Inland Water Transport is poised to play a crucial role in India's efforts towards green and sustainable logistics. By integrating technological advancements and fostering public-private collaboration, the Government envisions transforming the waterways landscape. While challenges such as infrastructure gaps and regulatory hurdles persist, a concerted effort by stakeholders can unlock the vast potential of India's inland waterways, significantly contributing to economic growth and environmental sustainability.

India's Inland Waterways Policy represents a strategic shift towards efficient and sustainable transport. The Jalavahak scheme and related initiatives reaffirm the Government's commitment to leveraging waterways as a key component of a modern and integrated transport network.

'AI for All': Democratising Artificial Intelligence for Inclusive Growth

Abhinav Srivastava

The Global Partnership on Artificial Intelligence (GPAI) Summit 2024, held on December 3-4, 2024, at the Palace of Serbia, Belgrade, brought together global leaders, policymakers, and innovators to deliberate on the transformative potential of Artificial Intelligence (AI). The event underscored pivotal themes such as ethical AI, international cooperation, and leveraging AI for societal good. Amidst this global discourse, Shri Jitin Prasada, Minister of State for Commerce and Industry, Electronics and Information Technology, delivered India's vision for harnessing AI as a tool for inclusivity, sustainable growth, and equitable progress, particularly for the Global South.

India's Adaptive AI Journey: A Vision of 'AI for All'

In his address Shri Prasada highlighted India's strategic approach under the IndiaAI Mission, a $1.2 billion initiative aimed at democratising AI access, improving data quality, and fostering indigenous capabilities. The mission is anchored in the principle of 'AI for All', ensuring AI-driven solutions are accessible and beneficial to all sections of society, from urban centers to the remotest villages.

India's commitment to harnessing Artificial Intelligence (AI) for societal benefit is reflected in transformative initiatives spanning healthcare, agriculture, and governance. In healthcare, AI-powered tools are enhancing access to medical services in rural areas, enabling early detection of critical diseases such as tuberculosis and cancer. In agriculture, AI-driven solutions like the KISAN e-Mitra chatbot provide farmers with real-time advice, helping optimise crop yields and resource use. Meanwhile, in governance, India's success with Digital Public Infrastructure (DPI), exemplified by platforms such as Aadhaar and UPI, showcases how scalable and inclusive systems can effectively bridge socio-economic divides, driving equitable progress across the nation.

Societal Impacts of AI: Bridging Divides and Driving Growth

AI's societal implications span multiple dimensions, including economic growth, education, healthcare, and governance. India's adaptive and ethical AI ecosystem is transforming lives and reshaping societal structures:

Economic Empowerment: Artificial Intelligence (AI) is driving transformative economic growth by fostering innovation, creating jobs, and promoting economic inclusion. Initiatives such as FutureSkills Prime have played a pivotal role in upskilling over 3.3 lakh individuals in AI-related fields, preparing the workforce to excel in an AI-driven economy. Moreover, India has emerged as the fastest-growing AI talent hub globally, securing the top rank in AI skill penetration according to

The IndiaAI Mission, launched by the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology, is structured around seven key pillars to foster a robust AI ecosystem in India:

Pillar	Description
IndiaAI Compute Capacity	Focuses on building a scalable AI computing infrastructure by deploying over 10,000 Graphics Processing Units (GPUs) through public-private partnerships. An AI marketplace will also be established to offer AI services and pre-trained models to innovators.
IndiaAI Innovation Centre	Aims to develop and deploy indigenous Large Multi-modal Models (LMMs) and domain-specific foundational models in critical sectors, enhancing India's self-reliance in AI technologies.
IndiaAI Datasets Platform	Seeks to streamline access to high-quality non-personal datasets, providing a unified platform for start-ups and researchers to facilitate AI innovation.
IndiaAI Application Development Initiative	Promotes the development, scaling, and adoption of impactful AI solutions targeting problem statements from various governmental sectors, aiming for large-scale socio-economic transformation.
IndiaAI FutureSkills	Intends to expand AI education by increasing AI courses at undergraduate, master's, and Ph.D. levels, and establishing Data and AI Labs in Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities to build an AI-ready workforce.
IndiaAI Start-up Financing	Designed to support and accelerate deep-tech AI start-ups by providing streamlined access to funding, enabling the execution of futuristic AI projects.
Safe & Trusted AI	Focuses on ensuring responsible AI development and usage by implementing 'Responsible AI' projects, including the development of indigenous tools, frameworks, self-assessment checklists for innovators, and governance guidelines.

the Stanford AI Index 2024. The surge in AI start-ups, coupled with a gender-inclusive growth trajectory- evidenced by women achieving an impressive 1.7 penetration rate-underscores the nation's dedication to economic empowerment through technological advancement.

Transforming Healthcare: AI is addressing some of India's most significant healthcare challenges by enabling innovations in diagnostics, telemedicine, and public health analytics. Partnerships such as the collaboration between the National Health Authority (NHA) and IIT Kanpur under the Ayushman Bharat Digital Mission are pioneering AI-driven public health solutions. These advancements enhance early disease detection, optimise resource allocation, and expand access to quality healthcare, heralding a new era of healthcare transformation across the country.

AI in Education: The integration of AI into education is revolutionising the way India prepares its youth and workforce for the future. Initiatives such as IIT Madras's online AI courses for school students and YuvAI programmes are nurturing a new generation of tech-savvy talent. Generative AI tools, such as the Shiksha Co-Pilot in Karnataka, are reshaping teacher training by improving lesson delivery and student learning outcomes. These developments reflect India's commitment to upskilling its population and ensuring readiness for the demands of a technology-driven world.

AI-Driven Agricultural and Rural Development: In the agricultural sector, AI is playing a crucial role in boosting productivity and improving livelihoods. Technologies such as predictive analytics and AI-enabled chatbots are empowering farmers to make informed decisions, optimise resource usage, and maximise yields. By addressing critical challenges in agriculture-dependent regions, AI is contributing to rural development and promoting sustainable growth, helping to bridge the urban-rural divide.

Enhancing Governance and Public Services: AI is transforming governance and public service delivery by enhancing efficiency, transparency, and citizen engagement. States such as Telangana and Andhra Pradesh are leveraging generative AI models to streamline e-governance and urban planning processes. These innovative applications of AI not only improve decision-making but also ensure that public services are more accessible and equitable, further cementing India's position as a leader in technology-driven governance.

Concerns over AI's Societal Impact

While AI offers immense potential, it also raises significant concerns that must be addressed to ensure equitable progress:

Impact on Jobs and the Workforce: The rise of AI-driven automation poses a significant challenge to traditional job markets, particularly in sectors like manufacturing, logistics, and customer service, where routine tasks are increasingly automated. This shift creates an urgent need for reskilling and upskilling workers to prepare them for emerging roles in AI, data science, and related fields. Recognising this, India has introduced initiatives such as FutureSkills Prime, which aim to provide accessible

FutureSkills Prime

FutureSkills Prime is a pioneering digital skilling initiative jointly developed by NASSCOM and the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY). Its primary objective is to transform India into a digitally proficient nation by equipping learners with essential skills required in today's rapidly evolving digital landscape.

Key Features:

- Comprehensive Course Offerings: The platform provides a wide array of courses and pathways in high-demand technology areas, including Artificial Intelligence, Big Data Analytics, Cloud Computing, Cybersecurity, and more. These courses are designed to align with National Occupational Standards (NOS) and the National Skills Qualification Framework (NSQF), ensuring that learners acquire skills that are highly valued by employers.
- Industry-Backed Certifications: FutureSkills Prime offers NASSCOM-certified programmes that enhance employability by validating the learner's expertise in specific technology domains. These certifications are recognised across the industry, providing a competitive edge in the job market.
- Experiential Project-Based Learning (ePBL): To build industry-ready skills, the platform incorporates experiential learning through projects that simulate real-world challenges. This hands-on approach enables learners to apply theoretical knowledge in practical scenarios, fostering a deeper understanding of the subject matter.
- Incentive Programmes: The Government of India offers incentives upon course completion, making digital skilling more accessible and affordable for a diverse range of learners. This initiative encourages continuous learning and skill development across the nation.
- Talent Connect Portal: FutureSkills Prime facilitates internships and job opportunities through its Talent Connect Portal, bridging the gap between skilled professionals and industry requirements. This feature aids in seamless career transitions and placements for learners.

Impact and Reach:

Since its inception, FutureSkills Prime has made significant strides in empowering learners:

- Over 2 Million Registered Users: The platform has attracted a vast number of learners, reflecting its widespread acceptance and the growing demand for digital skills.
- Extensive Course Enrolments: With numerous enrolments across various courses, learners are actively engaging in upskilling and reskilling to stay relevant in the digital economy.
- Diverse Demographic Participation: FutureSkills Prime has reached learners in Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities, with a significant percentage of women participants, promoting inclusive growth and equal opportunities in the tech industry.

and affordable training in AI-related domains. By equipping the workforce with the skills needed for the future, India seeks to mitigate job displacement while fostering a more adaptable and competitive workforce.

Addressing Gender Inequality in AI: Despite notable progress, such as a 1.7 penetration rate in AI skills for women, gender disparities remain a significant challenge, particularly in leadership positions and advanced AI research. These gaps highlight the importance of promoting STEM education for girls and creating opportunities that ensure women's representation in AI-driven industries. Achieving gender parity is not only a matter of fairness but also a critical factor for fostering inclusive growth and innovation in the rapidly expanding AI landscape.

Tackling Ethical Concerns and Bias in AI: AI systems are often susceptible to algorithmic biases that reflect societal prejudices embedded in their training data. Such biases can perpetuate inequalities related to gender, race, or socio-economic status, raising ethical FutureSkills Prime offers a diverse range of courses and pathways across various technology domains to equip learners with in-demand skills. The available domains include:

- Artificial Intelligence

concerns about the deployment of AI technologies. India has taken a leadership role in addressing these issues through ethical AI governance frameworks, as exemplified by its contributions to the G20 Digital Public Infrastructure. These frameworks emphasise fairness, accountability, and inclusivity, ensuring that AI technologies serve society equitably and ethically.

Ensuring Data Privacy and Security: As AI technologies become more integrated into daily life, safeguarding data privacy has emerged as a critical challenge. Citizens' sensitive information must be protected through robust regulations and frameworks for data governance. Developing strong policies that strike a balance between innovation and privacy protection is essential for maintaining public trust in AI systems. India's commitment to building secure digital ecosystems is a crucial step in addressing these concerns and ensuring responsible AI adoption.

Bridging the Gap to Address Social Inequality: The rapid advancement of AI risks exacerbating social inequality if access to AI technologies remains concentrated in urban, affluent areas. This digital divide can leave rural and economically disadvantaged communities behind, further entrenching disparities.

Bridging this gap through initiatives like India's Digital Public Infrastructure is vital for ensuring inclusive development. By democratising access to AI tools and resources, India can enable all citizens to benefit from the transformative potential of AI, fostering equitable progress across the nation.

Conclusion

The societal impacts of AI are profound and far-reaching, and India's adaptive approach offers a hopeful vision for a more inclusive, equitable, and sustainable future. Through initiatives like the IndiaAI Mission and its leadership in global platforms like GPAI, India is setting the stage for AI to serve as a bridge-connecting aspirations, addressing disparities, and unlocking opportunities for all. As AI continues to reshape societies, India's emphasis on ethical governance and equitable growth serves as an inspiring example for the world to follow. The future of AI lies not just in its algorithms and data but in its ability to uplift humanity, foster collaboration, and create a better tomorrow for all.

Bridging Minds and Machines : New Careers in Cognitive Sciences

Rank	Institution	Location	NIRF Rank (Category)	Programmes Offered
18	Indian Institute of Technology Guwahati	Guwahati, Assam	9 (Engineering)	Research initiatives in AI and cognition.
19	National Institute of Mental Health and Neuro Sciences (NIMHANS)	Bengaluru, Karnataka	Not ranked (Recognised for Research)	Specialised programmes in neuroscience and mental health.
20	Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS)	Mumbai, Maharashtra	Not ranked (Significant for Social Sciences)	Courses focussing on psychological sciences and social work.

The Perks: More Than a Paycheck

When making a wise career decision, it is essential to consider three key aspects: intellectual fulfillment, income and financial perks, and societal impact. Cognitive sciences excel in all three areas, making it a compelling choice for aspiring professionals. First, intellectual fulfillment is at the heart of this field. Cognitive sciences encourage you to explore complex questions about human consciousness, intelligence, and behaviour, offering a career that stimulates curiosity and promotes lifelong learning-qualities vital for personal and professional satisfaction.

Second, the field offers strong financial prospects and competitive salaries. According to market trends, the demand for cognitive science professionals has surged, driven by advancements in artificial intelligence, neuroscience, and behavioural analytics. Roles such as AI specialists, data scientists, and market researchers see starting salaries ranging from Rs. 6-12 lakh per annum in India, with experienced professionals earning upwards of Rs. 25-30 lakh annually, particularly in sectors like fintech, healthcare, and education technology. Globally, roles in AI and machine learning are among the most lucrative, with cognitive scientists playing a pivotal role in making technology intuitive, human-centric, and efficient.

Finally, societal impact is a defining feature of cognitive sciences, as the work directly contributes to improving lives. Whether you are developing AI systems to assist individuals with disabilities, pioneering therapies for mental health, or enhancing education systems with cognitive research, the outcomes of your work can create far-reaching, positive change. By combining intellectual satisfaction, strong income potential, and the ability to make a meaningful difference, cognitive sciences provide a well-rounded career path that aligns passion with purpose, ensuring long-term success and fulfillment.

BEST ENTRY FOR

ISSUE DATED 7 - 13 December 2024

Q. The government has launched 'Bal Vivah Mukh Bharat' campaign to tackle the challenge of child marriage, considering the fact that the practice remains widespread in seven high-burden states. What steps do you think can strengthen this initiative and empower young girls?

Best Entry: The Bal Vivah Mukh Bharat campaign was launched on November 27, 2024 by the Union Minister for Women and Child Development, Smt. Annapurna Devi. This initiative aims to eradicate child marriage and empower young girls across India.

To strengthen the campaign, the following steps could be implemented:

Spreading Awareness:

- Organise campaigns, rallies, and workshops to educate people about the negative effects of child marriage.
- Develop targeted awareness programmes to reach rural and underserved areas.

Providing Free Education:

- Offer free and high-quality education to girls to build their confidence and independence.

Strict Enforcement of Laws:

- Ensure rigorous enforcement of laws against child marriage.
- Penalise those who promote or facilitate child marriages to establish a strong deterrent.

Parental Education:

- Educate parents on the importance of delaying marriage and the benefits of educating their children.
- Utilise community-based initiatives to challenge traditional mindsets.

Engaging Key Community Stakeholders:

- Collaborate with community leaders, teachers, and healthcare workers to identify and prevent child marriages effectively.

Support Systems:

- Establish helplines and counselling centres to provide psychological and legal support to victims.
- Create shelters for those escaping child marriages to ensure their safety and well-being.

Involvement of Influencers:

- Engage influencers, film stars, and public figures to amplify the campaign's message and broaden its reach.
- Recognise the power of visual storytelling; for instance, the Tamil series Ayali (2023), written and directed by Muthukumar, highlighted social issues such as child marriage, domestic violence, education, and gender inequality. The series depicted how a young girl's determination brought change to her community, inspiring viewers to challenge societal norms.

Inspiration Through Success Stories:

- Celebrate and share success stories of girls who have overcome child marriage to inspire others and demonstrate that change is possible.
- By implementing these measures, the campaign can create a meaningful and lasting impact, empowering young girls and paving the way for a brighter and more equitable future.

Credit Guarantee Scheme for Easy Loan to Farmers

The Central Government has introduced a new scheme to help farmers get easier access to loans. Called the Credit Guarantee Scheme for e-NWR-Based Pledge Financing, it allows farmers to use electronic negotiable warehouse receipts (e-NWR) as a guarantee to borrow money. When farmers store their crops in approved warehouses, they receive an e-NWR, a digital certificate confirming their produce is safely stored. This certificate can then be used to get low-interest loans from banks and other financial institutions. The scheme is open to farmers, producer organisations, cooperatives, and small businesses. Union Minister Shri Pralhad Joshi said that this initiative will stop farmers from being forced to sell their crops at low prices after harvest and will make it easier for banks to provide loans safely. He also encouraged banks to lend more freely to farmers and called for more high-quality warehouses to support the system.

NTA to Focus on Entrance Tests, Drop Recruitment Exams from 2025

Union Education Minister Shri Dharmendra Pradhan has announced that starting 2025, the National Testing Agency (NTA) will exclusively conduct competitive entrance exams for educational institutions, excluding recruitment tests. The move aims to ensure error-free exams and accountability. Discussions are underway regarding the format of NEET-UG, with modalities expected in 2-3 weeks. CUET-UG will remain an annual exam. Recommendations from a committee led by former ISRO chief Shri K. Radhakrishnan for secure and fair exam conduct will be implemented, including secure question paper storage and using government institutions for exams.

Anti-Pesticide Bodysuit for Farmers' Safety

Union Minister Dr. Jitendra Singh unveiled India's first anti-pesticide bodysuit, Kisan Kavach, in New Delhi on December 17, 2024. Designed to protect farmers from pesticide-induced health risks, the washable suit offers defence against toxicity causing breathing disorders and vision loss. Dr. Singh called it a milestone for farmer safety and sustainable agriculture. The first batch of suits was distributed to farmers at the launch.

24 Divyangjan Secure Jobs at Rozgar Mela in New Delhi

A Rozgar Mela held at the Divya Kala Mela at India Gate offered employment opportunities to Divyangjan (persons with disabilities). Out of 404 registered candidates, 243 were shortlisted for interviews, with 24 receiving job offers from renowned companies like Amazon, Flipkart, IBM, and IndiGo Airlines. Organised to promote self-reliance, the Divya Kala Mela that concluded on December 22, 2024 featured over 100 artisans showcasing their products, alongside cultural performances and food stalls. To date, 178 Divyangjan have secured jobs through such initiatives.

INS Nirdeshak Commissioned into Indian Navy

INS Nirdeshak, the Indian Navy's second Survey Vessel (Large), has been commissioned at Naval Dockyard, Visakhapatnam. Built by Garden Reach Shipbuilders & Engineers, the vessel will enhance hydrographic surveys, navigation, and maritime operations. With over 80% indigenous content, the ship features advanced systems like Multi-Beam Echo Sounders, AUVs, and ROVs, enabling precise oceanic mapping and environmental studies. It will bolster the SAGAR (Security and Growth for All in the Region) initiative, strengthen regional maritime collaboration, and support India's self-reliance in defence manufacturing.

India Tags Ganges River Dolphin for the First Time in Assam

The Wild Life Institute of India (WII) has started satellite tagging of Ganges River Dolphin (Platanista gangetica) in Assam as part of the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change's 'Project Dolphin'. The initiative, led by the WII in collaboration with the Assam Forest Department, aims to study the species' movement, habitat use, and migratory patterns. Union Minister Shri Bhupender Yadav hailed the milestone as a breakthrough for conserving India's National Aquatic Animal. The lightweight satellite tags will provide critical data to guide conservation efforts, ensuring the sustenance of river ecosystems. Plans are underway to expand this initiative to other regions inhabited by the species.

TRAI Implements SMS Traceability Framework to Curb Spam

The Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) has achieved a key milestone by implementing a blockchain-based framework to ensure the traceability of all commercial SMS, enhancing transparency and reducing spam. From November 2024, businesses, banks, and government entities were mandated to register their message transmission paths via Distributed Ledger Technology (DLT). Following an extended compliance deadline, all major entities have now registered, with unregistered SMS traffic being blocked from December 11, 2024. This initiative, part of TRAI's broader anti-spam measures, ensures secure messaging while maintaining service continuity for consumers, reinforcing trust in India's telecom ecosystem.

US Eases H-1B Visa Rules to Boost Skilled Worker Hiring

The Biden administration has relaxed H-1B visa rules to help US companies hire skilled foreign workers more easily. The changes, announced by the Department of Homeland Security, simplify the transition from F-1 student visas to H-1B visas and modernise the criteria for specialty roles and exempt organisations. This move is expected to benefit thousands of Indian tech professionals, as India accounted for over 72% of the 386,000 H-1B visas issued last year. H-1B visas allow US companies to employ foreign workers in specialised fields like technology and engineering, which are crucial for the industry.

India Partners with France for World-Class National Museum

The Ministry of Culture has partnered with France Museums Développement (FMD) to establish the Yuga Yugeen Bharat National Museum as a global cultural landmark. Spanning 1,55,000 square meters across New Delhi's historic North and South Blocks, the museum will celebrate India's civilisational legacy through adaptive reuse, preserving architectural heritage while creating a vibrant cultural space. France's expertise, exemplified by projects like the Louvre, will shape this ambitious endeavour. First announced at the 2023 International Museum Expo, the museum aims to redefine the cultural experience, celebrating India's heritage while fostering inclusivity.

India Becomes 3rd Largest Smartphone Exporter Globally

India has become the world's 3rd largest smartphone exporter, climbing from 23rd rank in 2019. In November 2024, smartphone exports exceeded Rs. 20,000 crore, a 92% increase from last year's Rs. 10,634 crore. Union IT Minister Shri Ashwini Vaishnaw termed the milestone, as "Making Bharat Story." The achievement surpasses the PLI scheme's export targets for 2024-25.

Coal Import Drops as Domestic Production Rises

India's coal imports dropped by 3.1% during April-October FY 2024-25, totaling 149.39 million tonnes (MT), compared to 154.17 MT in the same period last year. Notably, imports for non-regulated sectors saw an 8.8% decline, and thermal power plants reduced imports for blending by 19.5%, showcasing efforts to achieve self-reliance. Only the power plants designed to run solely on imported coal saw an increase in imports reaching 30.04 MT-a 38.4% rise. Meanwhile, coal production surged to 537.57 MT, a 6.04% rise from 506.93 MT in the previous fiscal year. The Ministry of Coal's initiatives to boost domestic output aim to curb imports, save foreign reserves, and ensure energy security.
